How to Maintain Your Designer Decorative Resurfacing

Here are some tips for preserving the life and appearance of your Decorative Resurfacing:

- Sweep it off

When cleaning your floor, you should always start by sweeping the floors with a broom, and then go over it again with a dust mop. This ensures that all debris big and small is removed from the surface before the real cleaning begins.

- Grab a bucket

You can then use a bucket full of warm water mixed with a dash of mild soap (dishwashing liquid or similar) or a mild floor cleaner (be sure not to use vinegar or chemicals such as ammonia). This mix of water and mild detergent is usually enough for a good clean, as stronger chemicals can actually destroy the finish of decorative concrete.

- Mop it up

When mopping the surface, work through small sections at a time, wringing the mop well each time. Once you have completed the entire surface, rinse out the bucket and complete the above process again, but this time with warm water only. This will remove any excess soap from the surface. Allow the floors to dry naturally, and before you know it, you'll see that tidy sparkle return.

- Maintain

It's wise to clean your floors regularly to keep them looking polished and tidy. It's also a good idea to reseal them every few years to maintain their longevity.

*FLAKE FLOORS - For heavy soiled areas we have a specific floor cleaner designed to remove oil and dirt from your flake system which can be used every 3 months for deep cleaning.
